THE LAST TWIST OF THE KNIFE [ENTRE FACAS, ALGODÃO]JOÃO ALMINO

According to critic Hans Ulrich Gumbrecht, “more perhaps than any of its acclaimed predecessors, João Almino’s new novel, his masterpiece to date, inscribes itself powerfully into the early 21st century moment of its genre’s history.” In The Last Twist Of The Knife, a lawyer who is nearing the end of his career, living in the outskirts of Brasília, abandons his wife and chases after the phantoms and fantasies of his impoverished childhood when he buys his Godfather’s share of the farm in his Northeastern home state. He is in search of an old love, of vengeance for the assassination of his father, and of success. A panorama of family drama, sentimental education, jealousy, greed, and political disputes draws itself into his failing memory as he makes his way home. After arriving, stuck between the contrast of old and new, he comes across surprises that not only change his future but also his past, leading him to legal confrontations. Who is he really? Whose son? Who was actually responsible for the assassination that he came to revenge? His return to Brasília gives way to dramatic situations that bring him a new perspective on what was and will be his life.

THE AUTHOR

João Almino, whose novels have been highly praised by Brazilian critics, has received some of Brazil’s most distinguished literary awards. The Five Seasons of Love (As cinco estações do amor), translated into Spanish, English, and Italian, received the Casa de Las Américas 2003 Literary Award. Free City (Cidade livre) received the Zaffari & Bourbon Literary Award for the best novel published in Brazil from May 2009 to May 2011, was shortlisted for both the Jabuti and the Portugal-Telecom Literary Awards, was published in French by Éditions Métailié and in English by Dalkey Archive Press. João Almino has been described as “one of the most brilliant authors of his generation” (Folha de S. Paulo) and “one of our country’s best authors”. From his first novel, critics have recognized the quality and inventiveness of his language. In the words of Mexican writer Alberto Ruy Sanchez, “he is a unique writer, who knows how to get across profound ideas without letting them suck the life out of his stories”. This year João Almino was elected a member of the Brazilian Academy of Letters.

THE NEW NEIGHBORS [OS NOVOS MORADORES]

FRANCISCO AZEVEDO

The terraced houses on Oitis Street: seemingly two façades in perfect harmony. In reality, two strangers joined together in permanent conflict. The first house is cold, suspicious and boring. Then comes a Dionysian, daring, unpredictable abode. It was already like this during Vicenza's days, the famous singer also renowned for her crazy parties, which gave hell to her neighbors, Zenobio and Carlota. When Vicenza decides to live abroad, it is a relief for both of them, not so much for their children. Damiana, the youngest daughter, is indifferent to the news. Cosme, the rebel son, suffers from the departure of his friend and lover. Cosme used to always find a way to visit Vicenza. It was worth the risk of being discovered by his parents. The house over there was so full of passion, humor, funny stories. So different from his home, where rigor and bitterness suffocated him.

Some months later, the new neighbors arrive. Pedro is a college professor. Ines is a renowned artist. The couple has two teenagers, Amanda and Estevão. Chance or fate, Cosme keeps linked to the house over there. He falls for Amanda unknowingly that the two siblings lead a secret love story. The growing involvement of the three youngsters provoke new conflicts behind those walls, and a dramatic narrative ensues. What's the worst punishment, the parents' pain or the children's fear? Is love enough for a family to survive? A pregnancy will bring in even more misery, but Petra's birth will prove the amazing force of forgiveness.

THE AUTHOR

Playwright, scriptwriter, poet and a former diplomat, Francisco José Alonso Vellozo Azevedo became a novelist when he wrote and launched Palma's Rice (Arroz de Palma), in 2008. A huge success for Record, his debut novel was sold to translation in 13 countries, 12 languages. It is being made into a series by TV Globo scheduled to begin in April 2019. Francisco Azevedo's plays Joined at the Hip (Unha e carne) and Anais Nin's House (A casa de Anais Nin) won public and critical acclaim, having been produced in Brazil and abroad.

WHITE SAND: AN IPANEMA NOVEL [AREIA BRANCA: UM ROMANCE DE IPANEMA]MARTHA BATALHA

This novel creates a fictional story for Johan Edward Jansson and his descendants, and how the family contributed to the shaping of Rio de Janeiro. Divided into two parts, the narrative first explores the arrival of Johan to Rio, as the Sweden ambassador in Brazil. He and his wife, the exotic and sensitive Brigitta, contributed to transforming a sleepy beach community, Ipanema, into one of the coolest and most charming destinations in the world. Johan's vision and love for the city led him to build a majestic castle just in front of the beach. The year was 1904, and the magnificence and mysteries of the neighborhood allow extraordinary characters to come to life. Brigitta, haunted by the voices in her head, Laura Alvim, a rich and spoiled girl who aspires to be an actress, and Alvaro, a well-known doctor who saved countless lives, but fell victim of his own experiments with science. The second part of the book tells the story of Johan's grandson, Otavio, and his wife Estela. Now much more densely populated, Ipanema still maintains some of the poetry of the early days, but it is changed by a whirlwind of modern development. The country is also going through a deep transformation, due to a military dictatorship. The changes are seen through the eyes of Beto, Estela's secret lover, and Maria Lucia, Otavio's first love. White Sand brings together multiple subplots, with facts, historical figures and fictional characters mixed into a well-orchestrated narrative. It tells a story that can be seen all across Latin America, where short memory and short-sighted decisions of a few were enough to scar the lives of many.

PUBLICATION/STATUS: To be published by Companhia das Letras (Brazil) in March 2018. Sold to Éditions Denöel (France).

THE INVISIBLE LIFE OF EURIDICE GUSMAO [A VIDA INVISÍVEL DE EURÍDICE GUSMÃO]MARTHA BATALHA

This is the courageous story of Euridice Gusmao, born in Rio de Janeiro to Portuguese expatriates during the 1920s. She is an extremely resourceful woman, with ambitious goals. However, neither her parents nor her husband, Antenor – an earnest yet stern bank employee – are supportive of her many inventive endeavors. Her sister, Guida, runs away after meeting the prestigious doctor Marcos, only to be burdened with the consequences of single parenting once he abandons the marriage around 1940. Intertwining these two powerful narratives, the author paints an enlightening picture of the progressive women of the era, and the struggles they faced while attempting to carve their own place in a male-dominated society. As the reader follows the misadventures of both sisters on their quest for happiness and fulfillment, we are introduced to an array of amusing characters: Zelia, Euridice's hilariously bitter neighbor keen on spreading rumors through the grapevine; Zelia's father, Alvaro; Filomena, a former prostitute who poses as child caregiver, and Maria das Dores, Euridice's hard-working maid. Another pivotal character is the Bachelor Antonio, who lives with his abrasive hypochondriac mother, Eulalia, while in constant pursuit of Euridice's attention. As Rio de Janeiro grows into its unique brand of cosmopolitan flare in the early 20th century, the author guides us through the journey of these two equally resilient women told by their point of view. It won't be long until they realize that all the joy and fulfillment they crave are, in fact, hidden in places they have never imagined before.

THE AUTHOR

Ana Beatriz Brandão discovered the pleasure of telling stories at a very early age. Her literary debut was in 2014, during the 23rd São Paulo International Book Biennial, with the publication of The Shadow Of An Angel (Sombra de um anjo). She was then 14 years old, and her novel was listed as one of the event's must-read books. In 2015 she did it again, but that time at the 17th Rio de Janeiro Book Biennial, with Soul Hunters (Caçadores de almas). During the event she lectured as a special guest, speaking to dozens of young readers. Now 17, Ana celebrates the success of her third book, The Boy With a Red Scarf, released in 2016. Readers from around the country are thrilled by the dramatic story that brings up topics such as a rare incurable disease, bullying, violence against women and eating disorders, provoking debate and controversy on the internet.

THE REMNANT [O REMANESCENTE]

RAFAEL CARDOSO

This is the saga of one family's exile and survival told from the unique perspective of those Europeans who fled to South America during the World War II. The characters that make up this story are no ordinary family. The main protagonist is Hugo Simon (the author's great-grandfather) who was a leading banker, art collector and cultural activist in Weimar Germany. Among his friends and direct associates were Albert Einstein, Thomas Mann, Stefan Zweig, as well as many other historical figures that appear as characters in the book. Faced with imminent arrest as a known socialist and a Jew, Hugo Simon fled Berlin for Paris in March 1933. He remained there until 1941, taking an active part in the anti-Nazi resistance. After the defeat of France, he and his family were finally forced to flee to Brazil, under assumed names, breaking completely with their past. They remained there for the rest of their lives, rebuilding their existence and identities in a strange land. None of them ever set foot in Europe again. The story is set during the years 1930 to 1945 and follows the destinies of five main characters: Hugo Simon, his wife Gertrud, their daughters Ursula and Annette, and their son-in-law Wolf Demeter. Tracking their flight from Berlin and their lives in France and Brazil, the narrative unfolds chronologically in a series of 24 episodes of varying length, each viewed from the vantage point of one of these characters. Interspersed among these third-person narratives, three brief first-person interludes piece together how the story came down to the author.

The composite work is a fictional staging of historical events, revealing the lives and thoughts of these characters against the backdrop of a world forever changed. Besides exploring the universal themes of exile and loss, The Remnant contributes a new and surprising twist to the literature on the World War II by focusing on the untold story of a forgotten historical figure and his experience in an extraordinary place and time.

Selected to be presented to movie producers by the program Books at Berlinale/2017.

His works of fiction include Among Women (Entre as mulheres), a novel in stories published by Record, in Brazil, in 2007; by Siruela, in Spain, in 2013; and by Fischer, in Germany, a critical and sales success, in 2014. He is the author of numerous books on the history of Brazilian art and design and is active as an independent curator. He currently resides in Berlin.

PRISONERS IN PARADISE [PRESOS NO PARAÍSO]CARLOS MARCELO

In the remote island of Fernando de Noronha, a secluded paradise in the coast of Brazil, the bodies of a colonel and a local doctor are found by police commissioner Nelson Silva, also known as Nelsão. Understaffed, he must rely on the help of Tobias Martins, a photographer working for a tourist agency that had been with the colonel hours before he was killed. As the commissioner skillfully advances on his investigation with poise and expertise, Tobias describes his interactions with natives, foreigners and his involvement with Lena, manager of the B&B where he is staying. Through his perspective, with Tom Jobim and reggae classics serving as background, the reader also discovers some obscure parts of the island, such as desolate prison ruins, and numerous conflicts. Divided into two parts, “Stranded in Paradise” and “The sea outside and the sea inside”, the novel relies on a dual narrative perspective, alternating between the voices of the two main characters. As it approaches its thrilling conclusion, this entanglement between both parts pushes beyond a simplistic mystery-solving ending to unravel a bundle of tormented souls and a family tragedy.

THE AUTHOR

Carlos Marcelo is the editor-in-chief of one of Brazil’s largest newspapers, Estado de Minas. In 2009, he published the biography Son Of The Revolution (Renato Russo – O filho da revolução), the story of an iconic Brazilian rock star who tragically died from HIV complications in the mid-1990s. The book has sold over 30 thousand since its release. His nonfiction book about a traditional Brazilian music style A History of Forró (O fole roncou! A história do Forró), by Zahar, 2012, was a finalist for the Jabuti Award, the most prestigious literary prize in the country. Prisoners in Paradise is a mystery novel, marking his first foray into fiction.

ANITA

THALES GUARACY

The saga of Anita Garibaldi, the “heroine of two worlds”, is told for the first time in a novel of great literary beauty and realistic colors, bringing back to life one of the most extraordinary women in history. The work shows us just the facts, with no fear of exposing the darkest, most obscure and terrifying moments in an epic and tragic biography. Told from the perspective of Giuseppe Garibaldi, the only person who fully witnessed her life, the story is followed by the reader as the couple fights the Brazilian Imperial troops, retreats to Uruguay, experiences hunger in Montevideo, suffers the death of their youngest child and wins victory against Argentina’s army. The legendary journey with the Republicans in South America granted the couple, even more fame in Italy, where Anita arrives before her husband, who remained sentenced to death in his native country, then divided and occupied by the Austrian Empire. At the end of what was meant to be a clandestine journey, Anita is greeted at the Genoa port by a crowd waiting for her arrival. Like Garibaldi, she becomes a symbol of the Risorgimento, the fight for Italy’s freedom and unification. Forced to hide her children from the enemy, Anita makes a dangerous journey through Italy, hidden in a mail truck, to meet Garibaldi in Rome. He and his Red Shirts are fighting for the city under siege by the Austrian and French. Their retreat and the ruthless chase through the country, with Anita six months pregnant and sick, are one of the most beautiful and intense dramas in human history and an incomparable example of a woman sacrificing everything for her love and her dreams. This is a novel of war and love, or perhaps love and war, showing that there is no work of fiction as extraordinary as real life.

THE AUTHOR

Thales Guaracy is a leading contemporary Brazilian author, with more than 200,000 copies of his books sold over the years. Born in 1964, in São Paulo, he worked as a journalist in the mainstream media, as for the newspaper O Estado de S. Paulo and weekly Veja. He received the great distinction of the Brazilian press, the Esso Award, for his coverage of the first presidential election after 30 years, in 1989. Guaracy wrote a best seller biography, Brazilian Dream (O sonho brasileiro), the life of Adolfo Amaro Rolim, founder of the Brazilian airline TAM, and is among the country’s best selling fiction authors as well, with four novels, a volume of novellas, and a book for children. In 2015, Planeta (Brazil) published his historical reportage The Conquest of Brazil (A conquista do Brasil), which has already been reprinted three times in Brazil and was also published in Portugal, by Planeta. Currently, he’s finalizing a sequence of his historical investigation on Brazil colonial times, to be published by Planeta in 2018.

SECRET DINNER [JANTAR SECRETO]RAPHAEL MONTES

Polemic and gory, Raphael Montes' latest thriller tells about four childhood friends who move from the interior of Brazil to Copacabana, Rio de Janeiro, where they will share an apartment while finishing college. One is in Business, the other in Medicine, a third studies IT, and the fourth is into Tourism intending to become a chef. After graduating, they still face huge obstacles to find jobs in the midst of a terrible economic crisis and make ends meet and pay the rent. One day, quite inadvertently, they start an illegal business: secret dinners organized through the internet for very special customers looking for an exotic and totally non-orthodox gastronomic experience. As times pass, what started as a joke becomes big business, and the four of them get rich. With so much money, they create an oppressive atmosphere for themselves, with distrust, paranoia, ambition, and violence. A thrilling narrative full of dark humor, Secret Dinner is a hyperbolic allegory on vegetarianism, the limits of the human being, and on a purposeless youth. It is also a dark study on how ambition and money can change people.

PUBLICATION/STATUS: Published by Companhia das Letras (Brazil) in November 2016; and by Filia (Poland) in June 2017. Sold to Albatros Media Group (Czech Republic), Penguin Random House (Spain) and Éditions du Masque (France). Film rights sold to RT Features. [360 pages]

PERFECT DAYS [DIAS PERFEITOS]RAPHAEL MONTES

Téo is a young medical student who divides his time between taking care of his paraplegic mother and dissecting cadavers in Anatomy classes – the moment he feels happiest. When he meets Clarice, he becomes obsessed with her and begins to stalk her. He discovers that Clarice dreams of being a scriptwriter and is writing a road movie named Perfect Days about three female friends who set out on a car trip throughout Brazil. When he tries to approach her, Teo is rebuffed and, driven to extremes, kidnaps her. Clarice is sedated and placed in the passenger seat of his car, and a journey around the country begins – the same as the characters in her script. He hopes to make her fall in love with him. Passing through settings like a chalet in Teresópolis and a deserted beach on an island near Rio de Janeiro, this dark-toned and sometimes suffocating psychological thriller explores the tension between the two characters through attitudes and dialogues that leave the reader wondering whether the attempt to seduce Clarice is really working.

SUICIDES [SUICIDAS]RAPHAEL MONTES

A cellar, nine youths, and a Magnum 608. What could have caused nine elite Rio de Janeiro university students – seemingly without problems – to play Russian roulette? A year after the tragedy, which ended violently and mysteriously, a new clue, till then kept secret by the police, casts light on the case. At the behest of police detective Diana Guimarães, the mothers of the young people are brought together in an effort to understand what really happened and the motives that led to suicide. Reading notes made by one of the suicides during the fatal incident, the women are swept into the whirlwind of the acts that culminated in the death of their children. In the increasingly charged atmosphere of the meeting, the false piety of social masks is stripped away and a greater truth begins to emerge. A gripping plot with an unpredictable ending.

THE VILLAGE [O VILAREJO]

RAPHAEL MONTES

This is a fix-up novel aimed at the young-adult market, with elements of suspense and gothic horror. The book comprises seven stories set in a snowbound village in an undefined period with overtones of the time of the World War II. The work is based on theories of the priest and demonologist Peter Binsfeld, who in 1589 linked each of the Seven Deadly Sins to an individual demon supposedly responsible for invoking the respective sin in human beings. Thus, each story explores a different deadly sin, slowly and gradually depicting the degradation of the inhabitants. Little by little, the village is decimated, defiled by cold and hunger. The stories can be read in any order without affecting understanding, but they are related in a complex fashion, so that a character with a mysterious past has his life explained at another point, and sometimes one story clarifies—even modifies—the ending of another. At the conclusion, the reader discovers that the narratives converge upon a unique and startling denouement. The author utilizes a carefully woven plot, narrated in the language of fable, to explore universal themes. To an extent, The Village is a microcosm of our society, dealing with prejudice, social inequality, ambition, and sexually transmitted diseases in a direct and intriguing manner that leads the young reader to reflect on these and other issues.

THE AUTHOR

Raphael Montes was born in Rio de Janeiro in 1990. A lawyer and writer, he has published in various mystery anthologies including Playboy, Rio Noir, and the celebrated American magazine Ellery Queen's Mystery Magazine. At 20, he impressed critics and public alike with Suicides, published by Benvirá, a masterly crime novel and a finalist for the Benvirá Literature Award in 2010, the Machado de Assis Award in 2012 awarded by the Brazilian National Library, and the prestigious São Paulo Literature Award 2013. Perfect Days was published in several countries and Raphael is being highly praised everywhere; The Guardian called him “a mixture of Alfred Hitchcock’s suspense with Quentin Tarantino’s black comedy”. He is currently working as a screenwriter at TV Globo.

THE HUMAN HYPOTHESIS [A HIPÓTESE HUMANA]

ALBERTO MUSSA

This book is the fourth volume of The Mythical Compendium of Rio de Janeiro series, which gathers five investigative novels, one for each century of the city's history. This five book series (a pentalogy) results from a literary assumption: The history of a city is the history of its crimes. The Human Hypothesis is set in the 19th century. A married lady shows up dead in her own room, in a rich suburb neighborhood. The father finds the body but doesn't press charges, as to avoid a scandal. Instead, he calls a private detective, a bastard cousin of the victim, to investigate the crime. This detective, who also worked as a secret agent of the police, was a Brazilian street fighter (Capoeira), a group of people that was marginalized at the time. The investigation leads to a tour into the complex human geography of the city, exposing conflicts between slaves, slave-owners and free citizens, and among the Afro-Brazilian mixed ethnicities during the times of Imperial Brazil. Like the others novels in the series, the big conflicts in the books have the cosmologic concepts of the south Americans Indians and Africans as backgrounds. The ones that forged the Brazilian culture.

THE FIRST STORY OF THE WORLD [A PRIMEIRA HISTÓRIA DO MUNDO]

ALBERTO MUSSA

Rio de Janeiro, 1567. Rio was only two years old when Francisco da Costa, a locksmith, was found dead by eight arrows, near the core of the village. Not long before the crime, the last indigenous villages had been destroyed. That body full of arrows would naturally suggest an attack from the indigenous enemy. But it was not what the Portuguese concluded: in a short period of time, ten Christians, ten citizens of Rio de Janeiro, were considered, singly and each one of them, to be suspects of the first murder in the criminal history of the place which would become the city of Rio de Janeiro. Even more astonishing is that Jerônima Rodrigues, the locksmith's wife, was pointed as the only cause of the crime, in all ten indictments. The First Story Of The World is the novel which brings this real case back and tries to, retrospectively, solve the crime. The book retells the city's early history, gives life to the characters involved in the process and treats the indigenous myths as the key to understand the case. The First Story Of The World is the third novel in a five-book series on crimes through Rio de Janeiro's history, from the 16th through the 20th centuries. The novel in the 17th century was released in 2007, the highly praised Queen Jinga's Throne, and the one in the 20th century is The Master Of The Left Side.

One of the three finalists for the Oceanos Literature Award, 2015.

THE MASTER OF THE LEFT SIDE [O SENHOR DO LADO ESQUERDO]

ALBERTO MUSSA

Rio de Janeiro, 1913. The secretary of the Brazilian president Hermes da Fonseca is killed in a bedroom at the House of Exchanges, an old mansion that once belonged to the Marquise of Santos, later reformed to become a luxurious brothel and nest for secret lovers. Under the façade of a medical clinic, this peculiar brothel is led by a scientist obsessed by the study of women's sexual fantasies. During the criminal investigation, a detective from the forensic police, patron of the House, meets and suspects a rascal from the docks and starts a long intellectual duel with him to find out, between the two, who is the greatest seducer and lover. Recipient of the 2011 editions of prestigious prizes like the National Library Award for Best Novel and the Brazilian Academy of Letters Award for Best Fiction Book, The Master Of The Left Side was also honored by the Rio de Janeiro newspaper O Globo as the “best Brazilian book” published in 2011.

QUEEN JINGA’S THRONE [O TRONO DA RAINHA JINGA]

ALBERTO MUSSA

Rio de Janeiro, 17th century: a wave of inexplicable violence terrifies the city – kidnappings, mutilations, killings. A secret brotherhood of African slaves, propagators of a strange heresy that troubles church authorities, is suspected. At the same time, in Africa, surprising events that seem to evoke the crimes in Brazil are taking place around the enigmatic reigning Queen Jinga. Then Mendo Antunes, a former slave trader and personal friend of the queen, enters the scene. He translates the verses of a mysterious African poem and joins the chief magistrate in investigating the crimes – the solution to which is tied to the mystery of the poem. About this novel, it has been written: “The men and women brought to us by Alberto Mussa are not just Africans dressed on ‘congos’, ‘ambundos’ or ‘imbangalas’, but they are characters that tell in our ears the different secrets that determine, to them, life and universe.” Over 20,000 copies sold through bookstores and government acquisitions for school libraries.

PUBLICATION/STATUS: Published in second edition by Record (Brazil) in 2007. Sold to Univers (Romania). [132 pages]

THE AUTHOR

His novel The Riddle Of Qaf (O Enigma de Qaf) was published by Anarchasis (France), Kapi Yayinlari (Turkey), Editora Casa de Las Américas (Cuba), Campo das Letras (Portugal), Fabula (Italy), Univers (Romania), CNT (Egypt), Edhasa (Argentina), Delakort (Bulgaria), Aflame (United Kingdom).

TWO [DOIS]

OSCAR NAKASATO

Two distinct voices narrate this novel. Two elderly brothers tell their lives each from a different angle, with a different focus, revealing their peculiar identities. The oldest, Zé Paulo, is conservative and methodical. The youngest, Zé Eduardo, is restless and unstable. While Zé Paulo's language is colloquial, as he is talking to his grandson, Zé Eduardo's narrative is formal, he is writing his diary. They have two other siblings: Zé Carlos, a policeman, and Maria Luisa, who abdicates her personal life and devotes herself to their family. Zé Paulo lives all his life in Maringá, a provincial town; there, he gets married and has three children. Zé Eduardo leaves to São Paulo, where he integrates an urban guerrilla during the military dictatorship and, as a result, is exiled. When he returns to Brazil, he is back in touch with his older brother, but their relationship is never to be warm. Ana Paula, Zé Paulo's teenage daughter, is rejected by her father and finds refuge in her uncle's words and arms. Then a tragedy ends the fraternal relationship for good.

NIHONJIN

OSCAR NAKASATO

It is a fictional memoir narrated by the protagonist's grandson telling the story of a family of Japanese immigrants along eight decades of the 20th century. Hideo Inabata arrives in Brazil with his wife and faces hard work on the coffee plantations, the difficulty of adaptation to the new country, discrimination and restrictions on individual freedom during the World War II. The "Brazilianization" and political-ideological positions of his son and the interracial marriage of his daughter are reasons for major conflicts. Winner of Benvirá Literature Award (2011) and Jabuti Award for best novel in 2012, Nihonjin was also considered one of the ten best works of Brazilian literature according to the reviewers of Homoliteratus site. It is also among the 20 best narratives of the last 20 years according to a poll conducted by the newspaper Cândido, in 2014.

THE CREEP COURT [A CORTE INFILTRADA]

ANDREA NUNES

What would you do if you discovered that you no longer own your thoughts?

While the Federal Supreme Court negotiates a millionaire contract to install a modern telecommunication system that facilitates secure dialogue between the judges and news broadcasting to the general audience, a neuroscience research laboratory is developing a scientific experiment with the potential to destroy the last barrier of our individuality: the human mind. Buddhist Master Nobu Kentaro knows that, if in the wrong hands, this invention might have unpredictable consequences. When he is about to warn against the device and prevent it from being used to implode the Brazilian judicial system, he is assassinated. The only clue he left is a mysterious gesture made at the moment of his death. To unveil what lies behind this murder, investigative journalist Edgar Trigueiro and Taís, a novice living in a Zen Buddhist monastery, must join their knowledge of the millennial secrets of the East and the corrupt power structures in Brasilia. They will have to overcome great danger and find answers to puzzles where they least expect them: within their own minds. Using sci-fi elements based on recent scientific discoveries in the field of neurology, Andrea Nunes' new novel mixes a breathtaking thriller with real facts behind the scenes of the Brazilian judicial system and reveals a bewildering promiscuity between Organized Crime and Power.

THE SINNER [PECADORA]

NANA PAUVOLIH

As a daughter of a preacher man, Isabel was born and raised in a family with strict moral rules. At nineteen she married her longtime boyfriend, Isaac, together they lived a modest, smooth and sexually unsatisfactory life. The fragility of their marriage becomes evident when she begins to work for Enrico – a handsome, sensual, alluring man, who works in advertising and is Isaac’s friend. The mutual attraction is immediate, but both Isabel and Enrico have reasons to avoid the situation getting out of control. One day, unknowingly, she looks for his number in her husband’s cell phone and sends him a message as if it was meant for someone else. Now, Isabel and Enrico talk under the pseudonyms of Sinner and Saint, without him knowing who she is, while at work they pretend to not feel attracted to one another. He ends the letter by establishing connections between what he had seen and the story of his life and that of his country.

THE AUTHOR

Nana Pauvolih was born in 1974 in Rio de Janeiro. She has a degree in History and taught for many years at high school level. She began writing at age 11, competing with a friend which of the two would write the best story. There was no winner, but while her friend followed a different path, Nana fell in love with writing and never stopped again. She won awards for poetry and chronicles but feared there would be no audience for her work. However, in 2012, she decided to share excerpts from one of her books on a site, and the success was amazing, a hit on the internet. New readers came in hundreds to the site by the day. She has many titles on digital Amazon and is often seen on the best seller list of the e-bookstore. Now she is published in paper and e-book by Rocco and Planeta, but many of her novels are still digital only on Amazon. Two of them were sold to audio and will come out from Audible/Amazon.

EMERALD WOMEN [MULHERES ESMERALDAS]

DOMINGOS PELLEGRINI

According to Domingos Pellegrini, Emerald Women is a “romantic literary thriller”. As a reporter for Playboy, Pellegrini covered the “Gold Fever” in the Amazon Forest during the 1980’s and wrote stories on several of the mines, including a much talked about and unusual “women’s gold mine”. In his novel, the mine is run by a prostitute, a truck-driver and a cook, all led by a former American nurse, Marianne, taken to the region by her father, who worked for Daniel Ludwig, the creator of Jari Project, in deep Amazonia. The journalist falls madly for the leader of the group, unaware that the women are being held hostages by a sheriff, who does not know they dig not only gold but, following a map left to Marianne by her father, also a huge Emerald vein. The journalist plans a photographic essay of the women in the mine field for his magazine; they plan to use him to escape with the Emerald load, passing through Northern Brazilian states down to São Paulo and Rio de Janeiro. A novel of intense action and cinematographic language, Emerald Women reveals the gold mining culture, local customs and universal human contradictions. The suspense plot is intermingled with ethical reflections and poetic passages, merging the Playboy reporter’s masculine world with the female universe of the gold mining leader, to then reveal that what is dug by them is, first and foremost, love and humanity.

PUBLICATION/STATUS: To be published by Autêntica (Brazil) in July 2018. Film rights sold to RT Features.

THE AUTHOR

Along with his literary career, Domingos Pellegrini has published over 60 books, including short stories, poetry, novels, theater and children’s and Young Adult narratives. As a writer for the young, he is a Brazilian classic, professionally living from literature for three decades. His YA novels, like The Money Tree (A árvore que dava dinheiro) and The Battles Of The Castle (A batalha do castelo), are among the most successful and respected titles of Brazilian fiction for this publishing segment. Domingos is also among the writers most awarded with the Jabuti, Brazil’s most prestigious literary prize, with six statuettes. He was born and still lives in Londrina, Paraná, an agricultural state. In the 1970’s, he was a reporter covering agriculture. In the 1980’s, he was a reporter for Playboy magazine, during the years he lived in São Paulo. It was then that he witnessed part of the facts described in the novel Emerald Women, about a women’s gold mine in Amazonia. The major critic Wilson Martins placed him as “one of the greatest Brazilian writers ever, with a particular language and a particular worldview as well”.

THIRTEEN [TREZE]

FML PEPPER

“Bad luck does not exist. But then neither does good luck. Life is a two-pan scale, and statistics are the weights.”

An unscrupulous girl with no faith was raised to be a thief. She has got the plan for an irreproachable, perfect sting, at least until she meets Madam Nadeje, an enigmatic circus psychic. Listening to her deepest secrets and some disturbing prophecies do not stop Rebecca, however, and she will have to deal with the aftermath. Her mathematical, logical world falls apart when she faces the psychic’s forethoughts, and her life becomes a nightmare. Chased by criminals, she believes her escape is the 13, the ominous number that shows up as a riddle. With the help of a young man met by chance at a coffee shop, Rebecca endures a journey with no way back but rather filled with dangerous and surprising routes. Karl is a proud and passionate MMA fighter who lives a great disappointment. Unable to accept losing, he makes a stupid mistake and becomes the victim of an irreversible harm. With a clot in his brain, his life is hanging by a thread. Now, decided to hide his condition, he keeps on working at the coffee shop and having a calm life far away from the fights. A perfect plan, at least until he meets Rebecca. Would Karl give up being cautious and do whatever it took for Rebecca, even if what it took to reach salvation would be defeat? But, who on earth is Madam Nadeje? Is she really a powerful psychic or just another con artist? What shall we do when good luck becomes unfortunate, and misfortune is the answer? Look close and try to solve the riddle. But do not deceive yourself, for the answer is way beyond the bright number in the crystal ball. Way beyond... The 13!

DON'T STOP! [NÃO PARE!] I VOLUME I

FML PEPPER

Would you give away your life to Death so you could feel alive?

Nina Scott could not take it anymore. She was forced to live a dull, nomadic and lonely life. Moving from one city to another, or even from country to country, Nina felt swallowed up in scary mysteries hidden in a past that was locked away from her. Now, at the age of seventeen, the girl with weird pupils needed some answers. Unfortunately the answers were getting close! When her mother decides they are staying in New York, Nina believes it is her biggest dream come true—she will go through an entire school year in only one school, make friends not having to abandon them, live a great love, grow roots, and above all, she will be a normal girl. But “normal” is far away from Nina’s life. Lost amid several unexplained deaths and accidents, and having to hide terrible facts from her almost paranoid mother, Nina is suspicious about everything and everyone, and about her own sanity. What could explain her paralyzing chills, the blindness, and her loss of memory whenever someone died close by? What did she have to do with the bizarre and supernatural events happening around all the time? Were they all linked somehow? Or was Richard, the grim boy with a sculptural body, hypnotizing blue eyes and tormented looks, responsible for everything. He always showed up at the most frightening moments and events? What path should she take after finding out her truths were actually big lies? What would you do if the only person with an answer to your deepest issues decides to charge you too high a price?

MACHADO

SILVIANO SANTIAGO

Against a backdrop detailing Rio de Janeiro's urban modernization process and the leveling of colonial grand residences across the city, Silviano Santiago's novel narrates the last four years in the life of Brazilian author Machado de Assis (1839-1908). He has reached old age at the moment the former Imperial Court is divided by the ample and airy Parisian style boulevard, Avenida Central, lined on both sides by magnificent art nouveau buildings. In a letter, he mentions he'll live out his days exiled from the city that saw his birth, and where he witnessed the abolition of slavery (1888) and the transition from a monarchical to a republican regime (1889). The novel finds Machado recently widowed, overcome by congenital illness, struggling with the final revisions of Memorial de Aires (Counselor Aires's Memoirs). And it observes the metamorphoses that define a new Carioca society at the moment when its citizens submit the command of the Young Republic to military, engineers, and doctors. Presented as a biography of the greatest Brazilian novelist, Machado does not settle for descriptions of concrete facts or a school teacher's lesson of Brazilian Social History. It penetrates into the intricate private and public life of Carioca high society, and of the founder and president of the Academia Brasileira de Letras. It utilizes an extended bibliography and original materials from that era. Machado is a hybrid work in which image and newspaper cuttings are collaged into literary writing. Machado was welcomed as one of the best novels of 2016 by several newspapers and magazines.

A THOUSAND STOLEN ROSES [MIL ROSAS ROUBADAS]

SILVIANO SANTIAGO

In 1952, two boys casually meet in Belo Horizonte while waiting for the tram. They become close friends. Sixty years later, Zeca, by then a renowned music agent and producer, agonizes in a hospital bed. While sitting by and watching him, the retired Brazilian History professor understands that he is losing not only his life partner but also his possible biographer. It is needed that roles are inverted, and it is up to him to write his inseparable friend's story. In their youth, they delight themselves with their charming literary mentor, Vanessa; with Marília they learn to listen to Ma Raney's jazz and get involved in an impossible love triangle. They distance themselves: one goes to Paris for his Ph.D., the other studies Journalism in São Paulo. They meet again in Rio de Janeiro, but their different styles separate them: Zeca lives among drugs and rock & roll and ridicules his well succeeded academic but unhappy friend. Beyond questioning the limits of fiction and memory, biography, and autobiography, this à clef narrative offers the rich testimony of a period and an exceptional friendship.

STELLA MANHATAN

SILVIANO SANTIAGO

Eduardo da Costa e Silva – official identity of Stella Manhattan – is an employee at the Brazilian consulate in New York, protected by Colonel Valdevinos Vianna, who secretly likes to wear himself in black leather clothes and turn into the violent Black Widow. Around them, there are characters as diverse as Aníbal, a paraplegic intellectual and voyeur; his libidinous wife, Leila; and Paco, an anti-Castro Cuban known as La Cucaracha. The novel articulates a game of appearance and reality, public and private, oppression and liberation, and has the city of New York as the background for an attack against the Colonel perpetrated by a group of Brazilian exiles there, people involved with political and liberation movements of all kinds – from the Black Panthers to Latin-American revolutionary guerrillas.

BROKEN SMILES [SORRISOS QUEBRADOS]

SOFIA SILVA

The second title of the Broken series, Broken Smiles is the story of three people deeply traumatized in life: Paola, André, and Sol, the latter's little daughter. Meeting at a clinic for emotionally handicapped patients, the three characters, who were victims of different kinds of violence that left them with deep scars, start solving their problems through truth and love. But much more than a love story, Broken Smiles is about the overcoming of fears and how to build real relationships by accepting one's own limitations. Digitally published on Amazon, it went straight to the top of the bestseller list of the electronic bookstore. Based on the large digital readership the Portuguese author has built among Brazilian fans, Broken Smiles was Sofia's first novel coming out in paper and is in the process of becoming huge in Brazil. The success has led to the sale of rights to prestigious Presença, in Portugal.

She got a powerful army of fans, who call themselves United Readers (Leitoras Unidas), composed by more than one thousand young readers, mostly from Brazil, who cause tremendous buzz around Sofia's work on social medias.

HER MOTHER'S MOTHER'S MOTHER AND HER DAUGHTERS
[A MÃE DA MÃE DE SUA MÃE E SUAS FILHAS]

MARIA JOSÉ SILVEIRA

This novel tells the story of a lineage of Brazilian women from Colonization through nowadays, playing important roles in the history of the country. Inaia, an Indian baby girl born in 1500, at the moment when the Portuguese step for the first on what will be Brazilian territory, is the first of those women and opens the book. Each one is the protagonist of a chapter, daughters taking the places of their mothers with such vivid narratives that the reader feels as if living the stories. With an intricate sequence of experiences and events, the author recreates Brazilian History through everyday life — losses and gains, joy and grief, challenges and dilemmas told through the eyes of pure but troubled, pained souls.

SONATA IN AUSCHWITZ [SONATA EM AUSCHWITZ]

LUIZE VALENTE

A baby born in the Auschwitz-Birkenau barracks in October 1944. A Sonata composed by a young German officer, on the same date, also in Auschwitz. Two stories that cross paths and complete each other. Decades later, Amalia, Portuguese daughter of a German father, starts to lift the veil that covers the Nazi past of the family from a musical score revealed by an unknown great-grandmother, signed by her grandfather Friedrich and entitled Für Haya (for Haya). The question of whether her grandfather, considered deceased before the end of the World War II, could be alive in Rio de Janeiro, leads her to cross the ocean and meet a Holocaust surviving Jewish couple, Adele and Enoch. The rise of Nazism in Berlin, the saga of the Hungarian Jews of Transylvania, the mysteries that occurred in the extermination camp in Poland and the post-war era in a house full of secrets in a Potsdam lake offer the paths that Amalia will travel to piece the puzzle together.

A SQUARE IN ANTWERP [UMA PRAÇA EM ANTUÉRPIA]

LUIZE VALENTE

Octogenarian Olívia Braga de Almeida, the owner of one of the largest supermarket chains in Brazil, watches the sunrise on the first day of the new millennium from the balcony of her apartment in the Copacabana Palace Hotel in Rio de Janeiro. Her granddaughter, Tita, comes in and surprises her with an old picture in which Olívia, young and pregnant, is seen beside an unknown man and a young boy in a square in Antwerp, Belgium. In another picture from about the same time, Olívia is seen by her husband, Antonio, and her son – who had just passed away – Luiz Felipe. The truth becomes known: “Olívia” is, in fact, Clarice, the woman in the picture from Antwerp, pregnant with Helena (Tita’s mother), mother of young Bernardo and wife to German Jew Theodor Zuskind, the father of her children. The true Olívia – the one in the other photo – was her twin sister, with whom she exchanged photo – was her twin sister, with whom she exchanged identities sixty years earlier on a Spanish border while fleeing in the middle of World War II. After this revelation, Tita takes her grandmother on a trip through time, during which Clarice narrates the saga of her family and the twist of fate that caused them to switch places. Then they take a real trip to Portugal and Antwerp where she finally rescues her long lost identity. A story of mistaken-identities, loyalties betrayed or kept to the end, and unrequited love, through the horrors of the World War II and Nazism up to nowadays.

A SNOWY MORNING IN SÃO PAULO [NEVE NA MANHÃ DE SÃO PAULO]

JOSÉ ROBERTO WALKER

“On Tuesday, June 25, 1918, São Paulo woke up dressed in white. The frozen mist of the morning was the first and only snow that the city had ever seen and, on that same day – the coldest in its history – an incandescent case of love was consummated.”

By the end of World War I, São Paulo was on the eve of becoming one of the largest cities in the world. There, a group of young men used to gather in a garçonnière for both amorous adventures and spirited discussions on politics and literature. Led by Oswald de Andrade, later to become one of the leaders of an important modernist art movement in Brazil, the group included several other writers who would themselves gain notoriety in the country. The young men kept a collective journal – which one of them dubbed “The Perfect Cook of Souls from This World” – to record that remarkable bohemian life. It was during those days that Oswald met a 17-year-old student and immediately fell in love with her. Different from other girls he and his friends knew, Daisy soon joined the group and acted as if she had always belonged there. Their love affair, however, challenged Oswald, who was then 27 and already a father, in many ways. The strong presence of Daisy in the literary gatherings and the tragic romance between her and Oswald de Andrade were documented in their journal.

In A Snowy Morning in São Paulo, it is up to Pedro – Oswald’s friend since childhood and the only one among the guys who never became a professional writer or achieved fame – to tell the drama in which he was one of the characters. A tale kept hidden for almost 40 years before an old and almost forgotten Oswald de Andrade started being ‘haunted’ once more by Daisy’s figure. And then Pedro had a story that could be hidden no more. This novel combines well known historical events with new facts arising from little-known or somehow neglected documents. Author J. R. Walker assembles, piece by piece, this complex puzzle and the picture that emerges is the beautiful and tragic face of Daisy, calling out from obscurity. Walker’s background as a historian and his long career in the cultural area made him the ideal writer to answer the call of Daisy and bring to life this nonfiction novel, a vivid, personal and historical puzzle.

SOFIA STERN'S UNFULFILLED ROMANCE [O ROMANCE INACABADO DE SOFIA STERN]

RONALDO WROBEL

At 90, Sofia Stern lives in Rio de Janeiro and suffers from dementia. To help her memory, her grandson gathers all documents and notes that she wrote along her life recording her youth in Nazi Germany. Together, grandmother and grandson write her biography in the 1930's. Sofia was Jewish, but not religious or Zionist. She loved Germany and felt perfectly German. Rejected by friends and neighbors, she dived into Hamburg's underworld and became part of a youth that challenged Hitler dancing jazz and preaching liberty. A beautiful story. However, incoherencies pop up along the narrative, and grandson decides to travel to Germany in search for truth. There, he gets to know Sofia's great love, and the man belies the stories that she always told to relatives in Brazil. Who is telling the truth? Is there one truth? Even after a life in common, is it really possible to say that you know someone? The grandson looks for difficult answers. Can he condemn his grandmother? Did she have much choice?

TRANSLATING HANNAH [TRADUZINDO HANNAH]

RONALDO WROBEL

In 1936, Max Kutner is a Polish Jew who works as a shoe repair man in Rio de Janeiro. Fluent in Yiddish, Max is called upon by the Political Police to act as a postal censor, translating the correspondence of other Jews into Portuguese, as the dictatorial Brazilian government suspects a communist conspiracy with "Semitic influence". If he refuses the task, he might be expelled from the country back to a European continent where Nazi rule cannot be stopped; if he accepts and is discovered by his community, lonely Max will be forever ostracized. Disturbed by terrible dilemmas, he falls in love with a woman he has never met, Hannah, who exchanges letters with her far away sister in Buenos Aires, Fanny. Decided to find Hannah and propose marriage, Max Kutner discovers a real personality which is very far from the one he fell in love with through her letters. His potential for love and tenderness leads Max to an unexpected succession of events. A beautiful literary novel about identity, Translating Hannah examines the folklore of Jews in the tropics and recovers an important part of the history of the community in the New World.

NONFICTION

THE NAME OF DEATH [O NOME DA MORTE]

KLESTER CAVALCANTI

After killing, Júlio Santana says ten Hail Mariés and twenty Our Father prayers to ask God for forgiveness. He's afraid of ending up in hell. Without ideologies, Júlio kills because that's his job. A profession he learned in his family, with his uncle Cícero, who gave him a "job" when he was just 17. In 35 years of career, Júlio has killed exact 492 people, keeping a record of all his "jobs" in a notepad whose cover has an image of Donald Duck. To portray the life of this intriguing character, journalist and writer Klester Cavalcanti makes the killer breath and haunt the reader with his coldness. In The Name of Death, all the characters are real and have their real names revealed, especially, Júlio Santana, whose dramas, dreams, passions, and weaknesses also appear in the story. Thus, the reader learns that the same individual who makes a living taking the lives of other people is a good son, loving father and faithful husband. And all this in a trajectory that is indistinguishable from that of Brazil's, through two important episodes of the recent history of the country: the Araguaia Guerrilla Movement and the mining of Serra Pelada. For the first time, a hit man shows his face and tells his life's story. More than a condemnation of impunity and the denudation of the gears of the addicted Brazilian machine, The Name of Death tells the amazing life of a boy who had everything to become a fisherman – like his father and his grandfather - but who has become the largest professional killer known to the world.

"Klester Cavalcanti is a thoroughbred journalist with a Capotean gift of transforming hard-news into high quality literature. On The Name of Death, he confirms this talent giving us a shocking and surprisingly real narrative." – Wagner Moura, Netflix series Narcos and Elite Squad actor

"The Name of Death is among the very best nonfiction literature in the world. The experience of reading it is equal to immersing in an excellent novel. Klester creates vivid pictures, builds real landscapes and inserts the reader into the mind of someone we should consider a monster: a hit-man. Then, suddenly, we see ourselves wanting the killer Julio Santana to escape his pursuers." – Fernando Meirelles

Klester Cavalcanti is one of the best investigative reporters in Brazil and has worked in the country's best media, such as Veja, Estadão, and IstoÉ. Born in 1969 in Pernambuco, Brazil, he has received national and international awards, such as Best Environmental Report in South America, given by Reuters and the ICUN (The International Union for Conservation of Nature), and the Natali Prize, the most important Human Rights award for journalism in the world. He also received the Vladimir Herzog Human Rights Award and is three times winner of Jabuti Literature Award with the books Widows Of The Land (Viúvas da Terra) in 2004, The Name of Death in 2006, and Days of Hell in Syria (Dias de inferno na Síria) in 2012. The latter two titles and The Name of Death are being made into films. The Name of Death is a super production from Globo Films and Fernando Meirelles (director of City of God and the opening of Rio Olympic Games), with Henrique Goldman as director and a great cast, scheduled for release in mid-2017 and aiming the international market. A fourth book The Lady of Liberty (A dama da liberdade), the biography of a woman dedicated to free contemporary slaves in Brazilian agriculture industries, is also being adapted to the movies under the direction of Bruno Barreto.

ON BEHALF OF HIS PARENTS [EM NOME DOS PAIS]MATHEUS LEITÃO

Since he was a small boy, Matheus Leitão could hear the words “persecution”, “prison” and “basement” often whispered by his parents, journalists Marcelo Netto and Miriam Leitão. The scary word “torture” appeared much later. Moved by the curiosity about the family’s past, with a young investigative mind, Matheus began collecting fragments of a painful history. It all began in 1972, in Espírito Santo, when his parents were active in the underground Communist Party of Brazil (PCdoB). After a Party comrade reported them to the Police, Miriam and Marcelo were arrested and tortured. At the time, Miriam was pregnant with Vladimir, the couple’s first child. Marcelo spent a year in solitary confinement. Matheus pursued a career as a journalist, focusing on human rights and the Brazilian past under a military dictatorship. On Behalf of His Parents is the result of his tireless investigations, which began with the search for the informant and moved on to locate the agents who would have participated in their parents’ torture sessions. Past and present are intertwined in this work, which rigorously reconstructs the events from the early 70s and, at the same time, presents the author’s exciting pilgrimage for Brazil in his search for answers. It is the story of parents and children, of reconciliation and responsibility, of impossible encounters. It is also a story of a country that is still reluctant to settle accounts with its dark past. A TV series produced concomitantly with the book and under the same title will be shown in four episodes by Latin HBO from April 2018 in Portuguese and Spanish.

DEATH IN THE SNOW [MORTE NA NEVE]

REGINA DRUMMOND

This is the first book in a series on inspector's Aline. She is an intelligent and brave French Police inspector who travels to different and far away countries in order to solve strange crimes. In each case, she always counts on the help of girls and boys from the region where she is on duty. In this book, Aline goes to Schliersee, Germany, where she has to discover why some people are freezing to death under the snow. They should know what to do and take when going outside during winter times, and there is no reason for their death. Because she is a young and nice woman, Aline has also to face the resistance of the local Police, which does not trust her competence. Plenty of amusing puns with German names (the author has lived in Germany for many a decade) make a lovely mystery narrative for children 11 years old+.

A SECRET LIFE [UMA VIDA EM SEGREDO]

AUTRAN DOURADO

After the death of her father, young Biela, 17 years old, already a motherless orphan, starts to live with Conrado, her cousin, who takes her to be with his family in a small town. Constança, Conrado's wife, tries to adapt Biela to a social life according to their social standing and orders beautiful dresses, teaching Biela how to behave like a rich, well-educated lady. But Biela only feels well when she is among the farm workers. She gets close to them after a great heartbreak. According to the author himself, his favorite work, this novel became a movie in 2001.

THE BELLS OF AGONY [OS SINOS DA AGONIA]

AUTRAN DOURADO

The novel is a recreation of Seneca's myth about Fedra and Hipólito. The story develops in the 18th century Vila Rica, and is told through three perspectives. João Diogo Galvão, his wife, Malvina, the redhead, and his son Gaspar, Malvina's stepson, compose the vertices of an impossible love triangle. The mixed blood Januário holds the task of being the hand armed by fate to precipitate the final climax. These rivals are, to a large extent, the opposite of each other, and that's why they complete one another. Torn by impossible love and by agony, these characters are classical portraits. Intensely in love, guilty, vengeful, they live their burdens with the fatalism of the greatest dramatic works.

THE OPERA OF THE DEAD [A ÓPERA DOS MORTOS]

AUTRAN DOURADO

Originally launched in 1967 and included by Unesco in a collection of the most representative works of world literature, this narrative is a dive in the past of Honório Cota's family. An old townhouse, which in its baroque architecture, already eroded by time, reveals the destiny of its residents, scarred by tragedy, in the Minas Gerais countryside. As the years pass by, the house gets impregnated with the ghosts of the ancestors, who create death signs out of objects and environments. After the death of her parents, Rosalina lives in this oppressive environment, with just her maid, the mute Quiquina, for a company. She spends her days sewing fabric flowers and wandering among still watches and rotten walls. The house's routine changes with the arrival of José Feliciano. A handyman, looking for a job from town to town, Juca Passarinho, as he is called, slowly enters the enigmatic house's universe and Rosalina's austere life.

THE TRACE OF THE EMBROIDERY [O RISCO DO BORDADO]

AUTRAN DOURADO

Set in the mythic Duas Pontes (Two Bridges), which would return in other books as a synthesis of the introspective universe of the author's characters, this novel is a trip to the past of the writer João da Fonseca Ribeiro. As João goes back to his hometown and meets old relatives and companions from his childhood, he puts together a jigsaw puzzle of what was lived and what was imagined, completing and expanding memory fragments which are his early years' narrative. Like in a Bildungsroman, the reader goes on learning how João became what he is, his harsh route to the discovery of sexuality, friendship, and literature. Hookers, farm workers, friends, old relatives cross João's path, who starts to see the trace under the embroidery which is his own life story.

THE AUTHOR

Son of a judge, born in Minas Gerais, Waldomiro Freitas Autran Dourado (1926-2012) studied Law and during his 20's worked as a journalist and stenographer at the State Assembly. His literary debut was the novel Web (Teia), in 1947. Then came Shadow and Exile (Sombra e exílio) and Time for Love (Tempo de amar), both novels receiving important prizes. In 1955, already living in Rio de Janeiro, he published Nine Stories in Groups of Three (Nove histórias em grupos de três), which won a prize from the National Book Institute. Autran was the presidential Press Secretary during Juscelino Kubitschek's government and, in 1961, he stood out with the publication of The Barque of Men (A barca dos homens), chosen as the best book of the year by the Brazilian Writers Union. His literature has a tragic content, but the atmosphere is poetic, and his characters compose primitive types, loners, misfits in the world around them. The novel A Secret Life was turned into a movie; The Opera of the Dead was chosen by Unesco for their collection of Representative Works from Universal Literature. He was also awarded with the Brazilian Goethe Award, the Brazilian Pen-Club and with the Jabuti, one of the most traditional literary awards in Brazil.

CHRONICLE OF THE MURDERED HOUSE [CRÔNICA DA CASA ASSASSINADA]

LÚCIO CARDOSO

Lúcio Cardoso's 1959 novel, Chronicle of the Murdered House, tells the story of a traditional family's slippage into social and moral decline. Employing a variety of narrative devices – including letters, diaries, memoirs, statements, confessions and accounts penned by the various characters – the author weaves a complex and thoroughly engaging tale, hauntingly brought to life by a prose style unique in Brazilian literature. Truth and falsehood play out their contradictions, drawing the reader into a plot peppered by adultery, incest, madness and decadence, the overriding theme of which is the conflict between the freedom to live out one's desires and the constraints imposed upon the individual by social conventions and family values. A descent into the dark underside of Brazilian culture, with the universal appeal of a great work of literature.

“When a friend suggested that Chronicle of the Murdered House might be the greatest modern Brazilian novel, I was startled. There are so many more obvious candidates, after all. But as I thought about it, I realized that the statement wasn't as strange as it sounds. The book itself is strange – part Faulknerian meditation on the perversities, including sexual, of degenerate country folk; part Dostoevskian examination of good and evil and God – but in its strangeness lies its rare power, and in the sincerity and seriousness with which the essential questions are posed lies its greatness.” – Benjamin Moser, author of Clarice

Winner of the Best Translated Book Award (BTBA), 2017.

THE AUTHOR

Lúcio Cardoso (1912-1968) is one of the leading Brazilian writers of the period between 1930 and 1960. As well as authoring dozens of novels and short stories, he was also active as a playwright, poet, journalist, filmmaker, and painter. Within the history of Brazilian literature, his oeuvre pioneered subjective scrutiny of the modern self, bringing to the fore the personal dramas and dilemmas that underlie perceptions of collective existence. Lúcio Cardoso came from a strongly Catholic background, and his diaries (re-published 2012, in Portuguese) furnish a powerful account of the doubts and guilt deriving from his homosexuality. As a writer, he turned away from the social realism fashionable in 1930s Brazil and opened the doors of Brazilian Literature to introspective works such as those of Clarice Lispector – his greatest follower and admirer. Cardoso was also a major force in the renewal of the Brazilian theater in the 1940s, authoring the first play staged by the Teatro Experimental do Negro group, pioneered by Abdias do Nascimento. He was also an ardent lover of cinema, which engaged his interest as a filmmaker in the 1940s and led eventually to his screenplay for Paulo Cesar Saraceni's Porto das Caixas, the first production of Brazil's Cinema Novo movement in the 1960s. Partially paralyzed by a stroke in 1962, Cardoso was forced to give up writing and turned to painting instead. In the words of Fausto Wolff, “he began to express in images that which he could no longer say with words”. In 1966, Cardoso was awarded the Machado de Assis Prize, for lifetime achievement, by the Brazilian Academy of Letters. He died two years later, at the age of 56, following a second stroke.

THE THREE TRIALS OF MANIREMA [A HORA DOS RUMINANTES]

JOSÉ J. VEIGA

In this novel – a mysterious puzzling tale, perfectly told –, a small town is stricken by the strangest of plagues: the sudden visitation, nearby, of silent, self-sufficient men. No one knows who the strangers are, where they came from, or what they want. But with every passing day, something unaccountable happens. The once-carefree town is overcome with tension as the carter, the storekeeper, the blacksmith, a courting couple, among others, are victimized. Confused and frightened, some people become secretive, some taciturn. A few stand their ground in the face of pressure and provocation, but most bend or reverse their values. Then, from the stranger's campsite, packs of howling dogs spread through the streets and gardens, invading houses, chasing down inhabitants. They bark, snarl, and whine for days. When, as if by magic, the dogs disappear, hundreds of plundering oxen descend upon the town. Houses are besieged, residents corralled, the land and air poisoned with excrement. Suddenly – as if obeying a silent order – they disappear. Are the animal invaders mere instruments of oppression or are they the men themselves in another guise? No one knows, and no one knows why the visitors themselves leave as suddenly and unpredictably as they arrived. A novel or an apologue? The reader must decide.

THE MISPLACED MACHINE AND OTHER STORIES [A ESTRANHA MÁQUINA EXTRAVIADA]

JOSÉ J. VEIGA

The narratives that make up The Misplaced Machine and Other Stories combine the element of terror with refining touches of tenderness, lightness, and lyricism. Some are poignant, some macabre, some ironically funny, but all imaginatively interweave mystery and fantasy with reality.

PLATIPLANTO'S LITTLE HORSES [OS CAVALINHOS DE PLATIPLANTO]

JOSÉ J. VEIGA

José J. Veiga's literary debut. It is a collection of 12 short stories on reminiscences, most of them about childhood, in which the narrator involves himself emotionally with great intensity. They are fables on the dissolution of the world in its structure, while the characters become deeply immersed in the absurd of the narrative.

Winner of Paulo Prata's Award and Monteiro Lobato Short Story Award.

SHADOWS OF BEARDED KINGS [SOMBRAS DE REIS BARBUDOS]

JOSÉ J. VEIGA

This novel tells the story of the people from a small town in the countryside, oppressed by the powerful company located there. The company enforces absurd behavior rules on the population, driving the inhabitants into panic and fear and triggering a mood of chaos and distrust in the village.

THE AUTHOR

Considered the master and greatest name of Brazilian surrealism, José J. Veiga was born in Goiás, Brazil, in 1915, and took his degree in law from Universidade do Brasil, in Rio, in 1944. In 1940, he started working as a journalist and editor. Following World War II, he went to London to work for BBC radio, and there he stayed until 1950. Upon his return to Rio, he became an editor for O Globo and later for Tribuna da Imprensa, both afternoon newspapers. He worked for Brazilian Reader's Digest, where he was the editor for Condensed Books. Already a classic in Brazilian literature, José J. Veiga died in 1999. Companhia das Letras acquired rights to his complete works, which started to be republished in 2015.
